Warsaw, June 21.

IT appears by the Dispatches which the Palatine of Mazovia the Republick's Ambassadour at the Russian Court, sent from Petersbourg, dated the 17th past, that in a new Conference with the Russian Ministers, he repeated his Instances for the Evacuation of Livonia and Courland, insisting in the most pressing Manner on a positive Answer, and declaring that the Republick would be obliged to look upon longer Delays and Evasions as a downright Refusal, and to take other Measures for supporting the Interests of the Polish Crown. The Russian Ministers answered, that the Ambassadour might have represented the Republick's Pretensions without Threatnings, which almost looked as if he had been sent to declare War. To this the Ambassadour replied, that the Republick had all along given such signal Proofs of their Desire to live in constant Friendship with his Czarish Majesty, that there was no Room to suspect them of a Design of declaring War, unless forced to it by his Czarish Majesty himself, and that therefore his insisting on the Accomplishment of solemn Treaties, ought by no means to be construed to imply Threatnings. A Courier who is arrived since from Petersbourg has brought Advice, that the said Ambassadour has been given to understand by Czar's Ministers, that tho' his Czarish Majesty resolved to comply with the Desires of the Republick, yet the present Junctures do not permit him to do it effectually, considering that he is threatened with an Invasion from the Swedes in Finland, to oppose which Design he has made all necessary Preparations, and is resolved to wait the Chance of that Campaign before he takes his Resolution. Count Horn, the King of Sweden's Minister at this Court, has not yet received an Answer to the Letter of Notification of his Swedish Majesty's Accession to the Crown, with which he was sent hither from Stockholm. His Polish Majesty is resolved to continue here till the ensuing Diet, and takes all imaginable Care to quiet the Minds of the dissaffected Party. He is removed from the Palace of Villa Nova to the Royal Castle, where he drinks the Mineral Waters. The Great Chanceller of the Crown has petitioned the King in favour of M. Koscinsky, High Burggrave of Courland who has been carried Prisoner into Russia by the Czar's Command, and his Majesty has sent Orders to the Ambassadour at Petersbourg to demand his being set at Liberty. The contagious Distempers which were observed for some time past at Caminick and Lemberg, have left off: But we have Advice from Jaroslaw, Zamosc, and Lublin, that great Hails are fallen there, which have destroyed the Corn and other Fruits of the Earth. There is Advice from the Ukraina, that a Russian Party of about 30 Men being sent to view, and having ventured too far on the Frontiers of Tartary, they were in the Night time surprised by another Party of Tartars, who put them all to the sword.

Hambourg, July 2. The Deputies of this City who lately set out for Vienna, in order to make their Submission to the Emperour in the Name of the Magistrates, arrived on the 23d past at Brunswick, where they were twice in Conference with Count Metfch, the Emperour's Minister to the Circle of Lower Saxony, after which they proceeded to Vienna. Count Rheensstierna the Swedish Minister here, has caused publick Notice to be given, that by his Swedish Majesty's Orders all Natives of Sweden, who formerly served in the Army of that Crown, if they are willing to return to their own Country, shall upon their addressing themselves to the said Minister here, be furnished with necessary Substistence, and travelling Charges to return home; and the like Provision has been made at Rostock and Lubeck for their being transported from thence to Sweden at the King's Expence. This has been done in Pursuance of the General Pardon published on his Swedish Majesty's Coronation Day, which is as follows:

The Royal Edict for a general Pardon, published on the King's Coronation Day, the 14th of May, 1720.

WE Frederick, by the Grace of God, King of Sweden, of the Goths and Vandals, &c. make known to all, That whereas on the Accession to the Regal Government it is usual in all Christian Countries to pardon the Offences that may have been committed as well within the Kingdom, as without, we do hereby grant Pardon to those who have committed any Crime, which according to the Laws of this Kingdom, was claimed before our Coronation (on account of his Blessing) and made known to him the Country as without, that they enjoy the same Liberty with all our other Countries and Provinces: We likewise grant Liberty of returning to all Deferents who have fled from our Countries, and if they have a Mind to serve the Crown again, they shall notwithstanding enjoy full Liberty: We except such Persons as are guilty of those great Crimes, Sodomy, Treason, Assassination, Firing of Houses accompanied with Murder, Sacrilege, Robbery, Heresy, and the like, who are entirely excluded out of our General Pardon: According to which, our Governours, Administrators, Burgh-masters, and Magistrates of the Towns, who shall receive this, are to regulate themselves. In Witness whereof we have signed these Presents, and caused our Royal Seal to be put to it. Stockholm, the 14th of May, 1720.
